The Control of Pale

Western Cutworm

This week's letter is on pale western cutworm control and is contributed by H. L. Seaman of the Dominion Entomological Laboratory at Lethbridge. This subject has been frequently referred to in previous letters and Mr. Seaman explains in detail why it is so important to avoid working land during August and early September. In the eradication of Canada this the necessity of frequent cultivation during this period is obvious, so that the farmer who has the right on his hands with this weed must decide for himself which is the less evil. Fortunately, Canada is the only weed common at present that requires cultural operations that would conflict with the sound advice offered by Mr. Seaman.

"Much has been printed during the past four years concerning the pale western cutworm, and recently the found of cutworm conditions for 1935 appeared in the press. The pale western cutworm is the larval stage of a moth or "miller" which flies during August and early September. These millers lay their eggs in loose dusty soil, and will avoid any fields where the surface is crusted.

"At present there is no practical method of controlling the pale western cut worm when it has once appeared in a crop and is causing damage. It is possible, however, by cultural methods to prevent an infestation in a particular field the following year. Since the miller always selects a place where the soil surface is soft and dusty, in which to lay their eggs, the location of the infestation during any year is largely determined by the condition of the soil surface during the egg laying period the previous year.

"Fields which are to be summer-fallowed must be worked early and thoroughly cultivated during June and July to destroy all weeds. All work on the fields to be protected from cut-

Swept Away By Current Two Children Drown

Caught in the current, two children went to their deaths in the Saskatchewan river at Leduc, Friday. Bodies of the two children, Bonnie Haworthson, 12-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Haworthson and Elmer Erickson, 10-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Erickson, were recovered at a late hour Friday night.

The two lads perished shortly before noon Friday, when a sand bar they were on gave way at the point where they were swimming, three miles east of the Lancer Ferry. Swept along by the current, the children disappeared and neighbors gathered to drag the river. Their fathers are farmers of the district.

Worm invasion must be stopped by August, and the fields left undisturbed until the middle of September. This will allow the showers to fall and wash over the surface of the soil, thereby making such ground unsuitable for egg-laying. If this crust is not broken up by cultivation or any other means during the time the moths are flying, the field will be reasonably free from cutworms the following year. Stock should not be allowed to run over this summer-fallow, as they will break up the crust as effectively as will cultivation.

"It must be fully realized that the effectiveness of this control of the infestation is dependent on showers or heavier rainfall late in July or early in August to crust the surface of the soil effectively. The presence or absence of weeds or stubble has little to do with the egg laying and a crusted weed field is in a much better condition to avoid infestation than a clean dusty field.

"Fields which are in a crop from August 1st nor left until the middle of September are very liable to infestation the following year, especially if the forecast for an outbreak indicates that cutworms are likely to be present.

"If a fall grain crop is to be sown it is advisable to seed before August 1, if possible, if not, the seed should be left until after the middle of September. Fall wheat and rye are not immune from cutworm attack, and seeding during August is

Threatened by Water Famine

Kansas City, Mo., July 21.—The problem Friday, in many parts of the drought-stricken southwest is now to find a glass of water to drink.

Scorched by a drought of several months' duration and 100 degrees temperatures which have taken a huge toll on man, life, crops and livestock, the southwest is facing the menace of a water famine.

Wells have failed, springs have dried up, streams disappear, large rivers and deep wells only remain as the source of water supply.

The danger of water famine is multiplied by rural communities. It costs money to drink water in some localities. Some parts of Kansas have not received rain since last September. Emporia, Kansas, experienced its 10th consecutive day with cloudless skies and the temperature above the 100 degree mark. The death toll from the excessive heat is rising in many parts of the various states of the country.

Cheaper Lumber

Washington, July 16 (AP)—Reductions of from eight to ten per cent in the price of all lumber products ordinarily used in house construction was announced today. Taken together with the recent price cut by retail lumber dealers, NRA officials said today's order would mean dashes of between 14 and 16 per cent in prices to the consumer.

If the crops in this district a week ago were in poor condition as a result of frost and drought, the excessive heat of the past week has made the conditions worse. Many fields of wheat are being cut for feed, plowed under or used as pasture. Gardens are being cooked and the likelihood of any vegetables is daily disappearing. Not only are the days exceedingly hot, but the heat continues throughout the nights. Kicking the covers off at night is not the usual custom in this country—News, Wolesey.

sure to leave the field with a soft and dusty surface."

Superintendent Field recommends that fall wheat seed, be delayed until September. Let a good degree of root out. However, to avoid also the possibility of cutworm damage, it would appear that seeding should be delayed a few days longer. —Experimental Farms Note.

Empress Sports Day

The Empress Sports Day passed off very satisfactorily on Wednesday, July 23. Five ball teams played, Mendum, Acadia Valley, Leader, Burstall and Empress. The tidbit was the game between the Valley and Burstall, the former after a hectic first innings when they brought in four runs, and later add another tally of three runs, lost out 9 to 4. Previous to this had been a pitcher's game between the Acadia Valley and Empress, Leader, and Acadia Valley and Burstall and Leader, the final game.

Men's Softball—Leader beat Estuary, Empress beat Wainfleet, Final, Leader beat Empress.

Ladies Softball—Leader beat Wainfleet; Empress beat Acadia Valley. Money split between Empress and Leader.

Junior Softball—Empress beat Gladstone, Acadia Valley beat Alasko. Money split between Empress and Valley.

A good dance at night round out the program. Much of the fun was in the day's work, and due to the work of Frank Smith.

Dad Neilson visited us on Thursday last, with his cousin, Mr. McEachern, who had driven here by car, from Iowa. Mr. Neilson and his wife were posted all along the route he had driven, seeing some of the first green fields near to Leader. Crop conditions were very bad in his state.

Wedding

A quiet wedding was solemnized on July 20th at the United Church House, when Miss Lydia Harold Sherwin, both of Burstall, Sask., The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. J. Law, pastor of the United Church, in the presence of friends of the contracting parties.

Mrs. Verne Hanna has been very ill during the past two weeks.

Short Russian Crop

The crop in Russia is causing the Soviet grave concern. How to divide an inadequate food supply among the industrial and office workers of the cities and factories and the collective and individual farmers is the momentous question upon which Russia's Communist dictators must make a decision before the middle of August, says the Christian Science Monitor.

It is now clear that the drought this spring in southern Russia's grain-growing areas has damaged the crop in the Ukraine, the north Caucasus and the Volga basin to such an extent that sub-average yield is inevitable.

In 1932, when the same prospect faced the Government, grain was taken forcibly from the peasants who had raised it, with the result that between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 became famine victims. By this means the food supplies of industrial workers and city dwellers were assured...

...A prolonged dry spell early this spring caused severe damage to winter crops and somewhat less severe damage to spring crops. As the season progressed, it has become apparent that the grain areas cannot hope for an average yield of 18 bu-hds, and this will not provide an abundant food supply for all Soviet citizens, and the Government must either draw upon its grain reserves, estimated at about 10,000,000 bushels, or reduce the food supply of peasants, or workers, or both...

Big Canadian Firm Celebrates Diamond Jubilee

Founded by George and Mathew Beatty on June 16, 1851 and with agencies, warehouses, offices or depots across Canada, in New Zealand, the United Kingdom and fifty other countries, the well-known national and world-wide exporting house of Beatty Bros., manufacturers of washing machines and farm implements, celebrated its diamond jubilee at Pergies, Ontario, location of the works of the company, including two from Great Britain, to take part in the demonstration. An interesting program was thoroughly appreciated and enjoyed.

The program shows artistic special at Pergies with insets of W. G. Beatty and M. J. Beatty, respectively president and vice-president of the firm.

United States Joins The ILO.

More than ordinary significance attaches to recent decision of the American Congress to apply for full membership of the International Labor Organization at Geneva, usually referred to as the ILO. Not only will admission of the United States add considerably to the prestige that organization enjoys, but, bringing it as will the U.S. to direct confrontation with this important branch of League of Nations' activity, the move will do much to restore prestige lost by the parent body through recent defections, notably that of Japan.

Press despatches have revealed little of the background, few of the events, behind this change of front on the part of the Washington government. The ILO is a covenant, not a League, and its admission does not imply endorsement of the League covenant, nor does it entail any political commitments to the League as such. In fact, the U.S. desire to provide adequate safeguards against the "foreign entanglements" that country has so rigorously eschewed since the war, is exemplified in the act of Congress which specifically declares that the United States, by membership in the ILO, shall assume "no obligation to any other power" in connection with the League's activities.

This, of course, is possible. The International Labor Organization, like the World Court upon whose bench the United States long has been represented, is an autonomous section of the League of Nations. Membership in either or both is possible without acceptance of the covenant. Germany, as a matter of fact, was an active, full-fledged member of the ILO for six years before the League's admission to the League. The relationship between the organization and the League is derived not from the covenant but from the charter of the ILO, which is Part XIII of the Treaty of Versailles.

The International Labor Organization is, however, much closer to the League than is the World Court, in the sense that it is, essentially, a League committee. The heart of the League's system, as far as the ILO is concerned, is the League itself. The League system is its permanent mechanism for international negotiation and the ILO parallels this machinery throughout, in its limited field of social questions.

The importance of the United States' decision to join the International Labor Organization, therefore, can best be deduced by considering it in relation to the social system created by varying standards of living, hours of labor and rates of wages, in nations now competing for foreign markets, and also by contrasting the present action with Washington's past attitude towards the Geneva labor office.

Historically, the United States has been far colder to the ILO than to any other branch of League activity. Until only a year ago, the United States government would not even consider the ILO as a possible organization, but now, without any parade or ballyhoo, Congress has accepted, finally without demur, the proposal to apply for membership. This will involve representation on the permanent secretariat at Geneva and ultimate appointment of American representatives to the personnel of the central office.

Psychologically, the action of Washington will have more far-reaching effects. It will give Japan, Germany and Italy "furious to think" for, if President Roosevelt is considering a proposal to place "a steel belt" around the world in connection with the League, he is likely to accept it, too. The League's proposal to the idea of accepting the League covenant, despite persistent reticence on the part of the League's foreign entanglements, American opinion relative to the League is undergoing a change, and that change is not so far short of accepting League membership as to make that end remote. If it come to pass that the United States enters the League, that body will immediately assume greater and nobler proportions in the eyes of the world, and the dreams of those who called it into existence will be within sight of fulfillment.

China Holds Cricket Fights

Sportsmen Will Pay Ten Dollars for Good Fighter

A great effort is being made in China to stimulate cricket-fighting. It is being made as great a legal offence as opium smoking and punishable with equally severe sentences.

Despite the efforts made to stop the "sport" an enormous amount of it goes on. The bet is for as much as $10 for a good fighting cricket, and many make it a business to breed them and train them for fighting. In the same way as cocks used to be bred for cock-fighting, the cockels face each other in elaborate bamboo "rings," down the middle of which a glass slide runs, through which the fighters glare at each other until such time as their ire is sufficiently aroused for the attack. Large stakes hang during the fights.

New Process Being Tried to Dredge Gold from Fraser River

The gold dredge in the banks of the Fraser River, which has till now largely proved elusive to the efforts of man, and of which there is said to be enough to pay the national debt of Canada many times over, is to be attacked at last. A company has a new type of dredge and with what appears to be every prospect of success.

The structure, now nearing completion, is the largest work of its kind ever attempted on the Pacific Coast, indeed, for the first time anywhere in the world an entirely new process as applied to gold dredging.

Built under the engineering advice and supervision of H. C. Moore, a pioneer dredge engineer, who has had 30 years' experience in that kind of work with British companies in the Malaya Peninsula, the great bulk may now be seen assuming final shape at the shipyards of the Canadian Engineers and Shipbuilders Limited.

Hydraulic pumps with suction strength of 200 pounds to the square inch, created by two 500-h.p. motors will raise the sand from the bottom of the river, and the sand will be washed and rotated will be completed upon the dredge.

Capacity, with the present equipment, is placed at 12,000 cubic yards a day, and provision has been made to double the present washing area by the addition of an upper deck on an incline of 12 feet from bow to stern.

The whole operation will be electrically controlled, with the central control switch on the bridge, reaching to the bow of the structure. Present estimates indicate an operating cost of not more than two cubic yards a minute.

Hydroelectric power is to be generated on Jones Creek, near where the dredge will be put into operation, and will generate 2,000 horse-power. It is understood that work upon this phase of the undertaking is to start at once.

If the operation of the first dredge proves successful—and every possible safeguard against failure seems to have been taken—the company will proceed to the construction of other dredges of similar size.

Some 200 men will be needed in some parts of the river under lease, but all will incorporate the present equipment, with such improvements as practice may suggest.

Problem in South Africa

Many Pupils With Scottish Names

As in Quebec so in South Africa there are people with pure Scottish names like Campbell, Macdonald, etc., to speak little or not English. Dr. S. H. Bloemfontein, Director of Education of the Orange Free State in the Union of South Africa, remarked after an investigation of Quebec schools:

"They will be compelled to go to Quebec to study the question of bilingualism and how it is handled in Quebec. In South Africa they have the same problem, the majority of the pupils being Afrikaans and English, but not English. They are faced with the difficulty of educating children in the outlying sections as in Quebec."

Dr. Pelliessier gave their names with the Scottish names of their parents of settlers who married English. They bear the same names to their wives but the mothers passed their own language to their offspring.

Year of Anniversaries

At Least Three Will Be Commemorated During 1934

That 1934 is a year of anniversaries was recalled by Victor Morin, chairman of the Montreal committee on the Quebec Charter observances, to the Quebec Women's Institute convention.

In 1934 occurred the discovery of Canada by Jacques Cartier; in 1634, the extension of the colony by the foundation of Quebec; in 1759, the opening of the first road between Quebec and Montreal; and in 1834, the granting of its charter to Toronto.

Some Long Sleeps

But Record Of Rip Van Winkle Still Stands

A Huddersfield man has had no sleep for eight weary years. Not one night can give him an hour of sleep. He sleeps in a chair such as a chair as a fixture, polished to the Mint, who fell asleep on April 27th, 1914, and slept serenely for fourteen days and fifteen nights. Fourteen days is only a nap compared with the record of a German sleepwalker.

A German civil servant named Arnold, forty-five years old, slipped one evening as he got out of a train and knocked his head on the pavement. He was taken home and put to bed. The doctors said there was no consciousness of any kind. Next morning he was still asleep, and slept for two years and four months. He was a wreck when at last he was wakened to find he had recovered.

There are the like of Marguerite Bovental, "The Sleeping Woman of Thessaloniki," who was thrown into a trance-like sleep by a fright and slept for nineteen years and six months. There is also a woman who failed to talk, as she was wakened to a skeleton and died five months later.

The record Rip Van Winkle is an American, a farmer called Harry. He came home one evening, tired and weary, and said he wanted to be put to sleep for twenty years. It was possible to rouse him to take food, but he could not stay awake more than five minutes. Like the French woman sleeper, he waked away and died.

French Company Will Survey Bear Lake

If Report Is Satisfactory Capital Will Be Invested

A French company will be invested in development in the Great Bear Lake mining district providing that a survey to be made this summer by Dr. Edmund Bruet, who arrived from Paris, France, to make a study of the area.

Dr. Bruet is vice-president and director of Olymnia, a large French company which is interested in mineral resources all over the world. It has organized a Canadian branch which will be responsible for the work in the north country.

The company is interested in gold, silver, pitchblende, and any of the mineral discoveries in the far north.

It also represents the department of natural resources at Paris. Dr. Bruet also will study the habits and customs of the Indians tribes in the north. He also expects to take back to Paris specimens of plant life and also insects found in the north country.

Date For The Next Federal Election Is Still Uncertain

Ottawa—A week after prorogation of parliament, the date of the next federal election was just as uncertain as it was when the house was in session. Liberal members left Ottawa with the prediction of their leader, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, there would be an election next fall, though he did not say when. There was no official announcement from the government side, and there was nothing apparent to lend strength to Mr. King's assertion.

With a far-reaching program of legislation to be set in operation, measures which would if successfully administered, benefit in some way or other practically every person in Canada, the government had enough to reason that it might be wise to keep whatever advantage might accrue. But there are four sure elections to be held within the next six months or so, possibly five, and it is expected that if they should go according to schedule, a general election would ensue.

All the vacancies are in Ontario: two in Toronto, one on Peel Street, one in Galt, and one in Elgin county. The Toronto seats would be held by the seat of Hon. H. E. Rychnon, former minister of national revenue, and Herbert Lennox, members, respectively, for Toronto East and North York. Dr. William Sparkes' death has vacated the seat of Frankford, and the resignation of Mitchell Hepburn, premier-elect of Ontario, vacated West Elgin.

Hon. Peter Hesman, former minister of labour and Liberal member for Etobicoke, has been invited to resign almost at once to join Mr. Hepburn's provincial government. Thus there would be three vacancies in what were Conservative seats in the last general election, and two in what were Liberal.

Soon after Prime Minister R. B. Bennett returns from his vacation trip to Calgary it is anticipated the Conservative party will get down to work on a complete Dominion program. This will be the banner of the general organization: the first step, Hon. R. J. Manion, minister of railways and canals, has been prominently mentioned for the task but it is believed considerable pressure would be required to induce him to accept the appointment.

In the meantime the government's departmental officers are going forward with the task of setting up the necessary organization to implement the legislation adopted at the recent parliamentary session. Designs are being prepared for the new railway which will be issued to the provinces and the new roads and stock is being prepared for market to secure the $3,000,000 capital required for that institution. Selection of governing officials will offer a knotty problem.

Flushed With Success

London—Lord Lansdale, Baron of Spots, congratulated Tex Austin, promoter of the rodeo now being produced in London, on his court victory against the Royal Society for the Protection of Cattle and Animals. The society had charged Austin with cruelty to steers used in the show.

Forty million gallons of ice cream were consumed in Great Britain last year.

No Time To Be Lost In Implementing Measures Passed At Ottawa

Ottawa—Cabinet council entered upon the task of building up the necessary machinery to carry out the involved proposals authorized by legislation at the parliamentary session just closed. The set-up of the marketing legislation, the farm debt relief scheme and the central bank will all be matters of immediate concern.

It is understood that establishment of a central bank will be delayed only so long as it takes to secure men with the necessary qualifications for it.

Undoubtedly the first governor will be imported from Great Britain since it has been made clear on more than one occasion that it would be extremely difficult if not impossible to find a Canadian to fill the post.

Pension Plan For Workers

Committee Has Approved Canadian National's New Project

Montreal—A joint committee of company and employee representatives has completed a plan to implement a new pension plan for Canadian National Railways employees to take effect Jan. 1, 1935. It is announced in the Canadian National Railways magazine.

The new plan, which has a contribution provision in addition to providing basic and service pension on retirement at 65 years, covers all employees of the company except those of the International Harvester and Prince Edward Island employees pension fund and the Grand Trunk superannuation and provided funds. Employees in the I.C.R. and P.E.I. funds are expected to be given the option of staying with their present pension plan.

Minimum basic subsistence pension will be granted to each employee solely at the expense of the company. This may be supplemented by joint contributions for the first six months by signing an agreement providing for the payment of interest on David and Young loan bonds held by British subjects.

The agreement extends six months from July 1, 1934, to the German minimum on all term foreign obligations became effective.

Other long and medium term obligations held in Great Britain which are mostly commercial, will not be set up in the same manner, according to the terms of the agreement.

Germany agreed to deposit British currency in the Bank of England in payment of all debts from David and Young loan bonds. In return, Britain will not apply the new clearing house law, under which the government would have been able to seize a portion of German commercial funds for the benefit of bondholders.

Starts Insurance Plan

Find For Unemployed Being Tried On Welfare

Madison—Wisconsin is watching progress of its latest social experiment—unemployment insurance.

The compulsory law became effective July 1. Every Wisconsin employer who has 10 or more workers must contribute for 15 weeks to make contributions to the insurance fund, and employers may submit voluntary plans which, if approved by the industrial commission, will be used instead of the mandatory act.

Until the fund amounts to $55 per week per employee the premium will be two per cent of the payroll. When it amounts to $55 but less than $75 the rate will be one per cent, and when the fund reaches $100 or more contributions will cease unless the employer destroys to provide adequate reserves for his men.

Protection Of London

Subways And Underground Railways Guarded Against Attacks

London—Questioned in the House of Commons on recent preparations for bacteriological and other methods of warfare described by Wickham St. Denys in "The Nineteenth Century Review," Lord President of the Council Stanley Baldwin made guard responses.

"I have seen allegations to the effect in a published article," he said, "but they have been officially denied by the government."

Mr. Baldwin said the protection of subways and underground railways as well as aerial defence of the capital were in the care of special departments.

BRITISH STATESWOMAN

History was made at Geneva recently—and by a woman. She is Mrs. Corbett Ashby, who was the lone representative of Britain at the General Commission of the Disarmament Conference. She had been a woman born of great power, her delegate. While the Conference was discussing security, Mrs. Corbett Ashby declared that Great Britain could not take part in any security pact outside her Locarno commitments.

Great Britain and Germany Sign Agreement

London—Great Britain and Germany have signed an agreement for the next six months by signing an agreement providing for the payment of interest on David and Young loan bonds held by British subjects.

New Alberta Premier

Hon. R. G. Reid Successor Hon. J. E. Browne

Edmonton—Member of the United Farmers of Alberta government since its formation in 1921, Hon. G. J. Phillips, who has been minister of lands and mines, has succeeded Hon. J. E. Browne as premier of Alberta.

Mr. Browne's retirement from politics was not a surprise, but his resignation of his cabinet and Mr. Reid indicated his new cabinet would be built around the old.

A Great Mystery

Mountain That Breathes Is Great Mystery To Scientists

Out in the heart of Arizona, hidden, archaeological showpiece in the two Americas, according to a statement credited to the Smithsonian Institution, there is one mystery which these modern readers of the mysteries of the rocks have not yet deciphered. It is the "breathing mountain."

In that region slashed through by the Grand Canyon, there once was a great plain. There followed a period of great volcanic disturbance, during which the earth labored and brought forth a few hundred mountain peaks. One of these peaks, known as Old Bill Williams, is the "breathing mountain."

Col. J. H. Aldred, its captain, is quite a youngster, as mountains go, and residents of the town of Williams, sleeping peacefully at its base, are not quite sure whether they should step seawards in the lap of a hibernating mountain, so recently a bursting volcano.

In addition to the lava and ashes which are the common outpourings of an active volcano, Old Bill Williams once sent forth great quantities of smoke and steam. Arctic winds which sweep these clouds down into the valleys, and so it is that the town of Williams rests above a bed of cinders covered over with from forty to a hundred feet of lava, rock and sand. These cinders are the mountain's lungs.

Citizens of Williams have a unique sewer system. They dig holes, some four feet in diameter, down into this bed of cinders and then remain to burn the sewage into these holes and the sewage disposal problem is solved.

But when sinking these holes, it is as though they drilled into the lungs of a monster sleeping giant. The British government turned down a motion for a unified Empire air force. Lord Londonderry, minister for air, frankly told the house of lords that the government had lost the confidence of the country, and that the situation unashamedly had become all too clear, he said.

"We can no longer hope an international convention will solve the problems of the air age," he said, and then the minister.

"His Majesty's government have decided they can no longer delay the steps that are necessary to provide adequately for the defence of these shores."

Lord Londonderry, the government's spokesman, announced some time ago, to build up the Royal Air Force to within "striking distance."

But the British government's motion, announced some time ago, to build up the Royal Air Force to within "striking distance," was defeated.

Lord Londonderry could not accept the motion submitted by Viscount Elibank, which urged the creation of an imperial air force and the summoning of a special imperial defense conference to consider the matter, he said.

Lord Londonderry pointed out that the defense resolution adopted at the imperial conference of 1923 recognized that it is for the parliaments of the several parts of the Empire, under the direction of their respective governments, to decide the nature and extent of any action which should be taken by them.

Strange English Village

Has Seven Inhabitants And Covers Only 300 Acres

Eden, a village in Hampshire, four miles from the market town of King's Somborne, has neither shop, school, smithy, dairy hall, post-office, publichouse, nor any other normal village acquisition does it boast. But Eden is not alone in this. It is one of seven inhabited villages, one of them a young girl, a farm, two cottages, and a church. The whole village covers only 300 acres. The church, bereft of a steeple and looking like a small barn, is 20 feet long, with an old bell tower 10 feet high. The roof is 300 pesos and a foot no bigger than a teacup. A single gravestone adorns its chancel, where cattle graze at will. Only once in the last 100 years has there been a christening, a marriage or a funeral. And each of these events took place beyond the memory of the present inhabitants.

Twin sisters at the remarkable age of 92 years, Mrs. Anna Darr and Mrs. Jon Darr, and Mrs. Brendon down east in Nova Scotia. The two sisters, both of whom were born in Brewood, N.S., and have lived within a few miles of each other in Colchester county all their lives.

Unified Empire Air Force

Plan Discussed With Favor Of Both Houses

Training School For Dogs

Potsdam Has Provided Many Blind Soldiers With Guides

A training school for blind men's dogs celebrated the tenth anniversary of its foundation in Potsdam recently. During the past ten years the school has received hundreds of German, especially soldiers, who have been specially trained in the offices of bogyguard and guide. At present there are forty dogs in the school preparing for their next examination, making possible the blind-shod sheepdogs two to three years old. The course lasts three months. The first and hardest lesson the dog has to learn is to lose or at least not know his master, the blind. Little disregard, they are taught, must be the answer to another dog's barking, for the blind man's dog barks only to signal danger. When the dog has passed all its examinations its master can be sure that the animal almost spends three weeks there so that master and dog understand each other before they come to depend entirely upon each other.

Flowers On Ocean Liners

All Big Ships Have Expert To Look After Flowers

About a year ago we can a little about a lady sailing on the Aquitania whose husband sent aboard a collection of corsage bouquets for the women of the ship. The last went, the lady was in a quandary what to do and consulting her steward, was assured that the flowers would be nicely cared for by "the professionals." We let go at that and investigated. Now, believe us we know a little about the subject of seafaring flowers. The Aquitania has a gardener, titled the big Cunarders have. The gardeners are the gardeners and are not bad, but the Cunarders, think an expert should be on hand to help the potted plants and watch over the cut flowers taken aboard for the passing. They help the passengers with their flowers, and the flowers are sent ashore at this end than at Southampton, by the way.

The Bremen and Europa have actual conservatories on their decks. Nothing really grows in them, though but a few flowers.

Should Not Be Surprising

Help of British Peer Works To Make A Living

astonishingly, it is reported that the son and heir of a British peer should be found working for a living, as a laborer in England and for a wage of $11 a week.

Why this should be found surprising we do not see. Lords must eat, sleep, have a house, and a staff, and makes any special provision for their support. The son of a peer may lose his money or his job or both, in the way of common people. Then if he is the right sort of chisel he looks for a job or another job, which is hard to do by the son of the man who figures in this cables story. —Ottawa Journal

FANCIFUL FABLES

Administration Of Justice Too Tardy

Halifax Judge Scores Unnecessary Delays In Law

After 27 years on the bench County Court Judge George S. Patterson of New Glasgow finds fault not with his felons nor with English law, but with the administration of justice.

The veteran jurist told a Halifax service club that Liberties of Magna Carta, granted at Runnymede 1215, by King John, since maintained as a guarantee of personal liberty to British subjects, were being violated in civilian Scotia every day.

He scored "unnecessary and unconstitutional" delays in the administration of justice, particularly in criminal cases, regarding the case of a girl who had remained in the town jail at Oshawa without trial from October until May, when a grand jury found "no bill" because there was no evidence to support the charge.

"Delays in justice are not the fault of British law," the judge declared firmly. "The fault is in the administration of the law."

The case involved a girl in a small case, he continued. In his own county of Preston a farmer in the spring, finding that others had cut wood on his land, would be lucky to get a decision within a week, he said.

"During my 27 years on the bench I have dealt with all sorts and conditions of cases," said Judge Patterson. "As a result I have a higher opinion of my fellow-men than before and have found human nature a higher and brighter thing than I ever thought possible."

Brief Career For Society

National Anti-Sex scandal did Not Last Long

A brief obituary notice in the London Times tells the death of an ideal as well as of a man. A few stars ago the Rev. Frank Melville, vicar of Eshall, founded the National Anti-Sex scandal, which almost immediately had a countrywide membership and a countrywide membership bearing a likeness of the three wise monkeys and the legend, "Speak no evil, see no evil, hear no evil." At its most vigorous period the society's membership could be counted in the thousands. It was made up of enthusiasts. When it did dwindle away and come to nothing in just a few years it was led by a writer. The Times observes that Mr. Melville was "noted for his outspoken views and his humor."

Praise For Canadian Nurses

Have High Reputation In Britain
And Are Well Known

A tribute was paid to Canadian nurses by Miss Edith Bone, interviewed at Montreal on her way to attend the Canadian Nursing Association convention in Toronto. Miss Bone said that Canadian nurses have a high reputation in Britain, where they have become known through the constantly increasing interchange of nurses.

The Canadian nursing in Canada and Britain, Miss Bone remarked, are much higher than those of some countries of Europe, where nursing is a very new thing as yet.

The proposed founding of a Florence Nightingale school of nursing referred to by Miss Bone, who expressed the view that some Canadian nurses would compete for and win it

Little Journeys In Science

PYRETHRUM

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

The story of how a young German scientist discovered a valuable insecticide is most interesting. In far away Japan, the daughter of a Japanese nobleman was being married, and to this celebration was invited a young German scientist.

It was the usual Japanese custom of these days to decorate each room entirely with a kind of flower or blossom. In one room the young scientist observed that no insects were flying around, and that the floor was strewed with dead ants and other insects. The room was decorated with a flower, somewhat like our ordinary field daisy. The young German found that this flower was known as the pyrethrum and that it grew in abundance in his home country.

It was the usual Japanese custom of these days to decorate each room entirely with a kind of flower or blossom.

In one room the young scientist observed that no insects were flying around, and that the floor was strewed with dead ants and other insects, but was harmless to humans. His discovery was of great value to all nations in the everlasting war against insect pests.

The pyrethrum flower is now widely cultivated in Japan, and its blossoms, compressed and packed in boxes, are shipped to all parts of the world to be used in the manufacture of insect powder, which is used chiefly in bed bugs.

It is a gay securer in checks or stripes an excellent medium. Trim it with white pincers.

Crushed petals, crinkled crepe prints, batiste and handkerchief lawn prints are other lovely suggestions for your model.

Make Homesteaders Preserve Trees

Consideration is being given by the provincial government, to enactment of regulations compelling homesteaders to retain on their land a portion of the natural timber, according to Premier R. G. Reid. This work will be in line with the general reforestation policies adopted by the Premier when he took over the then newly-formed lands and mines department in 1930.

Factors in Fruit Jelly Making

Three substances are essential to a good jelly. They are pectin, sugar and acid. Pectin is the primary jellying agent. It varies considerably in fruits both in quality and quantity. Analysis of small fruits in the chemical laboratories of the Central Experimental Farm has shown how readily pectin deteriorates. To retain their maximum jellying capacity, these fruits should be picked when just ripe and should be used as soon as possible after picking.

Sugar plays an important part in jelly formation. Texture, flavor and yield of jelly are largely determined by the amount of sugar added. Ordinarily, the best jellies contain about 60 to 65 per cent of sugar to be added will vary with the composition of the fruit. Too much sugar in proportion to pectin and acid is one of the most common causes of failure in jelly making. Other things being equal, a weak jelly results from the addition of too much sugar and a tough jelly from the addition of too little.

The acid content, or more correctly, the active acidity of fruits is the third essential of jelly formation. If it is too high, "weeping" will occur. If it is too low, the jelly will not "set." All fruits contain acid in varying amount. In general the acid in the fruit provides sufficient active acidity for the making of a good jelly, provided that sufficient pectin and sugar are present.

Investigations in the chemical laboratories have shown how important it is to obtain a proper balance between pectin, sugar and active acidity to produce the best jelly.

A combination of 0.2 percent acid and 0.4 percent pectin, with 67 per cent sugar was found to give a very satisfactory product. - Gent. Exp. Farms Note.

We are born with certain instincts which, if they were allowed to govern our conduct, would bring us into conflict with the established standards of social behaviour, most of which we, individually, will have accepted.

Unconsciously, there is going on within us a constant conflict as between our instincts and these standards. The individual who makes a satisfactory adjustment between the two and finds a perfectly satisfying and socially acceptable outlet of expression for his instinctive drive, has mental health. Failure to resolve the conflict in a satisfactory manner leads to mental conflicts which express themselves in actions and behaviour of a kind that is commonly known as nervous behaviour or nervousness.

Nervousness takes many forms, one of which is neurasthenia. Fatigue is a prominent symptom. The slightest exertion causes fatigue, the morning finds the sufferer more tired than when he went to bed. There is difficulty in concentrating, which means that it is hard to get work finished this in turn leads to worry and to irritability, expressed in outbursts or tears.

Worries and fears can be run away from or suppressed for the time being if the individual becomes ill, for no one, and certainly not the sick man himself, expects that a sick man will do his work and deal with problems. Illness is an escape, and the individual unconsciously begins to develop physical aches, and other symptoms associated with physical disease. The symptoms are not imaginary; they are very real, but their cause lies in the mental, not the physical life of the individual. Mental health and physical health are closely related, and any disturbance of the mental or emotional side of the body may express itself in physical changes.

Neurasthenia varies in severity from mere fatigue and inability to sleep, to a condition of well-developed fears and severe physical prostration, what is called a nervous breakdown, or nervous exhaustion. Neither our nerves nor our brains become exhausted from work. An exhausting physical illness, or a sudden and severe mental shock may be important factors in the development of neurasthenia, but in the vast majority of cases, the condition grows out of mental conflicts. There is no such thing as "shell shock" in the ordinary sense of the words; the symptoms of shell shock express an involuntary mental conflict between the instinct of self-preservation and the accepted standard of duty. Nervousness does not develop in the individual in whom good mental habits are established in childhood. This conflict consists in the sufferer's gaining an understanding of himself and as to why he reacts in the way he does to certain situations. With that knowledge and under proper guidance, he can work out a satisfactory adjustment to the world in which he finds himself.

Keep Up Poisoning
Of Grasshoppers

Officials of the federal and provincial departments of agriculture working on the grasshopper campaign in Alberta have issued a strong appeal to farmers in the infested areas to redouble their efforts in the next few weeks, declaring that the critical point has now been reached. "There is a general impression that poison spraying operations can no longer be carried on to advantage," declares H. L. Seaman, of the dominion entomological service at Lethbridge, who has been working in co-operation with the provincial field crops branch who have been directing the campaign against the hoppers. "Time spent on spreading bait during July and August is well repaid, not only in actual crop saving but in reducing the hopper menace next year." Bait mixing stations which have been in operation will be kept open state officials, and bait will be available without charge for any who will use it.
